BURGLAR CAPTURED AFTER LIVELY CHASE

Enters Coffee House and Japanese Rooming House-Narrow Escape Of Jap.

OGDEN, July 28.-Fred Clay, a negro and a cocaine fiend, was arrested Wednesday morning by Patrolman Al Herrick after an exciting chase of several blocks and booked at the police station plocks and booked at the police station on the charge of robbery and assault with a deadly weapon. Clarence Lowe, proprietor of the National Coffee House at 187 Twenty-fifth street, positively identified the man as the one who entered his place at 4 a.m. and after an argument procured a revolver and threatened to shoot up the place. The negro was driven from the coffee house and about 5 a.m. the guests at a Japanese roominghouse at 141 Twenty-fourth street were aroused by a burly black man in the act of going through the clothing of various roomers. It is estimated that about $20 and some other articles were taken. Kiso Kaji, manager of the Japanese-American Industrial association, one of the roomers, attempted to stop the robber and narrowly missed being shot as the fellow drew a large revolver and fired point blank at his pursuer, the ball passing within a few inches of Kaji. The Japanese gave chase and Officer Herrick, who was notified, joined in the pursuit and finally the man was captured near the Union depot. Both Lowe and Kaji positively identify the man, Clay, as the negro who caused the trouble and excitement in their respective places but the negro, thus far, has admitted nothing which would implicate him in the trouble. When arrested he had about $20 on his person. on the charge of robbery and assault

BULLION STEALING CASE.

BULLION STEALING CASE.

OGDEN, July 28.—William Beck and Rheinbold Malken were given a preliminary hearing on Wednesday on the charge of stealing 10 bars of silver-lead bullion valued at approximately $62. The question of the value of the bullion was introduced and W. A. Black, an assayer from Salt Lake, testified that he had received five samples of the bullion and that the assay showed them to contain $135 per ton of lead, silver and gold, making the 10 bars worth about $62. Night Watchman Bennett of the Utah Construction company, who arrested the boys, testified to having found them covering the bullion over with sand near the fence of the Construction company. When the boys were arrested there were three men on the opposite side of the railroad track who made their escape in the river bottoms and Beck and Malken say they know nothing of the theft and that they were not acquainted with the three strangers. They claim to have uccidentally discovered the bullion and tate that they were in the act of reovering it when arrested. The hearing sill be concluded some time this morning.

HON. C. W. PENROSE PAYS TRIBUTE TO PIONEERS

(Special Coorrespondence.)

LEHI, Utah, July 2a.—The Grd anniversary of the Utah pioneers was celebrated on Monday in a most titing style, with no mishaps. After the serenading of the town by the bands and proper salutes to the pioneers, the people assembled in the new tabernacle at 16 am. when an excellent pregram was rendered. Hon. Chas. W. Pebrose was crator of the day and gave a grand eulogy of the lives and labors of the pioneers. Their travels and hardships, their fidelity to their religion, and the great work they did in reclaiming this country and making the wilderness biossom as the rose, were depicted in eloquent terms that touched the hearts of his hearers. He urged the posterity of the pioneers to follow in their footsteps, to honor their birthright and to ever remember their great heritage.

Hishop James H. Gardner, in a fitting speech, represented the pioneers of Lehi. Excellent and appropriate musical numbers were given.

In the afternoon sports of all kinds were pulled off. The Lehi and Salt Lake league teams played an exciting baseball game, Salt Lake winning. The day's festivities closed with a grand balt in the city payllion.

The law requires a special license of $100 per year, instead of the usual merchants license, and in addition provides for the giving of a bond by the druggist, conditioned to compel him to obey all the laws of the state. This latter provision made the law so obnexious that the druggists determined to fight the law, in the courts. Some time ago they were cited into court for doing business without a license, and there the matter ended. Now the committee has decided to proceed with the enforcement of the law.

To make room for the passing of a load of hay along the driveway of his home several limbs of a tree had to be removed, so Mr. Folster secured a saw and ladder and was busily engaged when he fell to the ground. Some small boys were near, who saw him fall, and at once ran to the neighbors to get help, but when help came Mr. Folster breathed his last.

Mr. Folster was born in Denmark, and shortly after his marriage he and his wife became converted to the Mormon faith and a few years later emigrated to Utah with their three children. They located in Pleasant Grove, where they remained four years, when they moved to Salina, and had not lived there long when the Indian trouble began and they were driven away. They then came to Ephraim, where they have since made their home and have been among the highly respected people of the community. NEPHI, Juab Co., Utah, July 26.—

Due to the coming Black Hawk war veteran encampment on Aug. 3, 4 and 5, and the display of arid farm products by the Nephi Commercial club on Aug. 5 it was thought best not to hold any Pioneer celebration here. There were, however, some excellent horse races pulled off at the Kendall track; a dance for the children during the afternoon, with a ball for the older people at night. (Special Correspondence.) with a bail for the older people at night.

At the coming encampment, Nephi expects to have upwards of 2,000 visitors from adjoining towns and counties, among the number expected are Governor Spry and staff, with many other prominent citizens of the state.

A special attraction will be the races, at which some of the best and fastest horses in southern Utah will compete for the purses being offered.

The big features of the occasion, however, which will be of special interest to the entire state, will be the arid farm product display on the last day
